Reconciling the Jail Master Plan with the United States Department of Justice Memorandum of Agreement

On September 5, 2013, the United States Department of Justice (DOJ) Civil Rights Division formally communicated its intent to open a civil investigation of the Los Angeles County Jail. The civil investigation stems from a December 2002 Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) with Los Angeles County (County) that focused on the treatment of mentally ill inmates; a matter that has been a particular concern as the County engages in a process with an independent consultant to develop a Jail Master Plan and potentially spend billions of public funds. The DOJ remains concerned with continued "significant problems" in the Sheriff's Department's treatment of the mentally ill and is also expressing concerns about use of force and abuse by jail deputies and staff. The ongoing DOJ criminal investigation coupled with the aforementioned initiation of a civil investigation highlight the need to reconcile USDOJ concerns with jail master planning efforts.
